

#7_beyond hope

Art project at the time of Covid-19

This painful global experience must leave us something. So I thought of sharing short reflections on my work useful for the project of a better future in which to live. Because this challenge is ours. History tells us. Let's live it in the awareness of being the protagonists of the whole of humanity.

The climbs of life force us to "reckon" with our childhood dreams. Between reality and desire, reflected in the eternal steel faces of this joyful child, we recover the pleasure and the ability to amaze and imagine. A lightness that is wisdom: the awareness that energy and enthusiasm help us overcome any difficulty towards the future we desire.
